DUMP TRUCK DUMPS ITSELF

Luther Kelley, 31, of 207 Gibson Street, Mill Valley, a driver for Tamalpais Sewers, Inc., of Mill Valley, couldn't figure what happened when he went to dump a load of dirt from his truck at a land fill beside the bay at Waldo Point at 9:30 a.m. today. Two big rocks in the load kept the dirt from going out the tailgate, and the whole truck dumped—back onto its rear wheels. It was righted later by another truck with no damage to anything except Kelley's nerves. (Photo by California Highway Patrol Sgt. James C. Dukes)

FIRE CHIEF'S EXAMPLE LEAVES HIM RED-FACED

Marinwood Fire Chief James Cameron, with a slightly red face, warned today that soot in chimneys is a common cause of fire this time of year, especially when large quantities of paper are burned in the fireplace.

The chief answered an alarm last night to put out such a fire. Flames were leaping from a chimney of a home at 410 Quietwood Drive. That is Chief Cameron's house.

There was no damage, but the Chief wanted to remind homeowners today that there are less spectacular ways to get the soot out of the chimney. One way, he said, is with chemicals that can be purcahsed at most hardware stores.

Better To Try And Fail Than Not To Try At All

Most New Year's resolutions are eventually broken.

But man continues to make them because he is forever striving for bigger achievements and loftier ideals, no matter how unattainable they may

Internationally, the goals are peace and social progress for all nations. Nationally, we look for justice and equality to all citizens, tolerance and respect for the rights and beliefs of all individuals, and improvements in our physical comforts.

Statewide, California has a new Governor and a new Administration on which the citizens of the state pin hopes for ultimate relief in taxes, a clampdown on crime and violence, and an upsurge in individual initiative and private enterprise.

The problems are staggering, and no one expects the year 1967 to bring all our hopes and aspirations to fruition. But unless we hope and strive to narrow the gap between what we have and what we would aspire to have, there will be no prog-

In that respect, every resolution, even if it is broken the first of the year, has its value.

It is with this in mind that we bravely trot out our resolutions, many of them worn thin from being hoisted annually only to be knocked down promptly.

We hope that the Vietnam New Year's truce coming up can be extended so that the new year will see a lessening of tensions if not leading to a permanent truce.

With some apprehension, we hope for easing of tensions between races. and application of civil rights legislation without resort to violence.

We look to the new state leadership for relief from the increasing burdens of taxation, without depriving the genuinely needy of adequate sustenance.

And as individual citizens, we resolve once again to eliminate the many personal imperfections with which we are all afflicted. In our associations with friends, business associates, and fellow citizens on the streets and highways, we will strive to do unto them as we would have them do unto us.

Many of these resolutions may fall far short of expectations, but we will all have contributed to a better new year for having striven, even falteringly, toward the attainment of our

Ants' Alarming Chemical

Ants are not to be counted among Nature's more intelligent creatures. Mostly they just respond to various stimuli. One can't imagine an ant pondering a weighty problem.

The way in which Marin's ants respond to the flooding of their nests with the arrival of winter's rain is a good example. They simply move in with the people—and die in large numbers at the hands of anti-ant prejudiced housewives.

Have you ever noticed how, if you kill a couple of these tiny creatures, the others will panic and run about purposelessly. Science has discovered that, when alarmed, ants secrete a certain chemical, the mere odor of which will cause all the ants within smelling distance to panic.

Reacting, not thinking—this is the way of the ant.

In addition to those mentioned previously, the list includes the Peter R. Johnsons of Mill Valley, the Morton R. Colvins and the William O. Weis-

In all, there may be about 50 Marinites participating in one or more of the various functions, starting with the Jan. 2 swearing-in of Gov. Ronald Reagan and ending with the Inaugural Ball on

UNDER THE NEW Reagan

Patrick, who failed in his bid for gubernatorial nomination, is still in the thick of the fight for GOP party leadership.

WHEN PATRICK FIRST ran for GOP nomination for governor, he virtually ignored the party organization and ran on his own. This time, he is apparently reversing his tactics. If you can't lick 'em, join 'em. He hopes to win a key position in the Republican State Central Committee with an eye to the 1968 election.

Most observers figure Patrick won't have much of a chance at wresting control. But they're not selling him short, because he's a young man (36) with a lot of determination, and money to back it up.

When others with a far better chance gave up the primary fight, Patrick clung on to the bitter end against Reagan and Christopher.

And the dumping he took has not discouraged him.

It looks as if Marin County will be very much in the political news again in 1967-68.

Where's Humor In This Poem?

Editor, Independent-Journal:

After reading the story in Saturday's (Dec. 17) I-J about Virginia O'Hanlon Douglas, the famous Virginia of "Yes, Virginia, there is a Santa Claus". it reminded me of the school paper my granddaughter brought home from school last week. (She is a seventh grader in a Mill Valley school.) The paper had the following poem printed in it:

'Santa Claus is a dirty old man. He lives all alone up in the North Pole with a lot of midget slaves helping him. He murdered his wife back in the twenties so he disguised himself in a stupid red suit and padded his stomach so the law couldn't identify him.

'Then, ol' Santa moved North, out of the law's jurisdiction. and set himself up as a kindly old superman who flys around in a sleigh, pilfering all of the good presents from under the Christmas trees.

"Did you ever notice how there never are enough presents when you get up on Christmas morning? Well

"He corrupts the minds of the vounger generation, making them worship all that is evil, wicked, mean, bad, nasty, homicidal, and morbid. Santa Claus is a one-man, chaotic organization of evil.

'This man is dangerous. He is wanted for murder, bigamy petty theft, grand larceny, counterfeiting, slander, painting the Washington Monument purple and green stripes with orange stars, and sticking his tongue out at Hubert Hum-

Is this supposed to be funny? If so, I fail to see the humor in it. I wonder what Mrs. Douglas, who was a public school principal, would think of this.

Councilman Aby Hit For Views On Carols

Editor, Independent-Journal: I have been sickened by the remarks of the uneducated bigot who in his ignorance may be forgiven or at least enlightened. But the recent utterances of San Rafael city councilman, Charles W. Aby, top every record for pure religious intolerance. That "non-Christians . . . are here only by sufferance" is surely the most appalling remark by an elected official that I have heard and the kind of statement that one would expect at midnight crossburnings and annual meetings of the KKK.

Nowhere in the public documents that form the basis for governing this country is Christianity given preference or pre-eminence as a "state" religion, and it may be noted here that many of our founding fathers, Thomas Jefferson for one, were Deists, which in the eighteenth century was re-M. H. DURR garded by orthodox Christianity as a form of heresy. It is quite arguable from his own writings that Benjamin Franklin was an agnostic, and one of the great influences on the American Revolution, Thomas Paine, was an atheist. Most important, none of these men allowed their private religious feelings to become public pol-

> But the most appalling thing about Mr. Aby's mouthings is that his fellow councilmen saw nothing inappropriate about them, and more horrifying, seemed to agree with him. I should think that Mr. Aby would restrain himself and let his private feelings about his fellow citizens who are non-Christians go unvoiced at public meetings.

Student Bares Views On Carol Commotion

Editor, Independent-Journal

Long ago, in the dawn of my junior year, I read your paper and was sore afraid. It seemed as though the Godless Communists had snuck into San Rafael High School and were doing their best to destroy the American way of life by burning the books and censoring what could be said in the classroom. But they weren't the filthy Reds: they were Conservatives, God - fearing, upright Republicans.

Now some of the baddies are gone, and hopefully Mrs. Strom will not last much longer, but a new group of iconoclasts has appeared.

These people are also Godless. That I cannot hold against them, for I am not convinced of the existence of God either.

What I can hold against them is their attempt to take the joy and wonder out of Christmas. These "teachers," who would undoubtedly call themselves liberals, in trying to stop the celebrating of the birth of Jesus, must be striving to prove that they can be as stupid and worthless as the destroyers of freedom they fought off before. What harm can Christmas carols do? Will they make the Jewish students feel persecuted? Will the atheists be infuriated?

They shouldn't be. For surely the birth of the Christ is as historically important as the birth of Lincoln or Washington.

Perhaps the "teachers" at San Rafael will be consistent. If they try to be, they must ban the study of the constitution if any one student believes in fascism, and the Revolution must not be mentioned if there is a British Loyalist present.

Thus will the dream of Mrs. Strom come true. With the Old Right and the New Left working together. San Rafael will turn out the truly safe student: denied knowledge by the conservatives, and stripped of ideals by the liberals

New Act Is Used For Health Funds

By ROBERT S. ALLEN and PAUL SCOTT

Johnson administration is making far-reaching changes in how the states will spend billions of dollars in federal aid for more than 40 different health programs.

Chief among the programs affected by these backstage administrative revisions are:

All those receiving health care funds from the Department of Health, Education & Welfore, and the Office of Economic Opportunity (the anti-poverty agency).

FUNDS FOR the construction of hospitals, medical and nursing schools.

National Institutes of Health research grants, and funds for medical personnel training programs administered by a number of federal agencies.

This extensive backstage administrative shake-up, thus will directly affect every state in the union, is being made under a little-known law passed in the final days of the recent Congress.

UNDER THIS MEASUREofficially known as the Comprehensive Health Planning and Public Health Service Amendments Act-HEW Secretary John Gardner was empowered to reorganize the Surgeon General William Stewart, directed by Gardner to put this revamping into effect, described the aim to a meeting of federal and state health officials as follows:

"The intent is to develop revolutionary new approaches to federal-state health relationship. The old system of government arrangements, inadequate state government, disjointed relations between federal, state and local levels, and uncoordinated federal programs and unmanageable city government, is dying and must be replaced. To put these far-reaching changes into operation state governors are being informed they must designate or their legislatures create "a single agency with the responsibility for administering or supervising the state's health planning

REGIONAL OFFICES of the Public Health Service are to be expanded to establish direct contact with the new state agencies, and to help plan the allocation of federal grants.

The enlarged Public Health Service regional offices will be directly under Surgeon General Stewart.

At his meeting with federalstate officials, he stressed that "we have decided to change our way of doing business in a rather radical manner. The changes being made are primarily for the purpose of pooling project grant funds and to broaden the possibilities of using these grants for innovation, demonstration or a specific target.'

IN JUSTIFICATION of these far-reaching plans, Stewart cited the language of the new law as follows:

"Congress finds that comprehensive planning for health services, health manpower and health facilities is essential at every level of government. Federal assistance must be directed to the marshalling of all health resources"

Peace Officers Break Tradition In By-Passing Election Of Dukes

when it by-passed this year's first vice president, California Highway Patrol Sgt. James Dukes, to elect Deputy Dist. Atty. Ernest Zunino president for 1967.

While the able and popular Zunino is undoubtedly an excellent choice, the question is raised as to whether Dukes, himself, broke a long-standing tradition that disqualified him:

THE TRADITION — which some believe exists—that law officers must back each other up in all circumstances, even to the extent of covering up for each other when a citizen's rights have been violated.

If there is such a tradition, Dukes certainly violated it a year ago, according to Larkspur Police Chief Howard Clark, who said Dukes accused two Larkspur patrolmen of beating John H. McGoran Jr. of Corte Madera outside a Greenbrae bar

CHIEF CLARK later told the Independent-Journal that he deeply resented Dukes' assertion that McGoran was not only beaten but denied medical attention when he said he was having a heart attack.

Dukes, when asked by the Independent - Journal if that incident could have played any part in his defeat in the Dec. 13 election, said, "I don't want to talk about it. I have nothing to say.

The record, however, shows that never in the past 10 years has the association failed to promote its first vice president to the top office. Under the tradition of "moving up through the chairs," Dukes was in line for the presidency, having also served as second vice president in 1965 and secretary-treasurer in 1964.

Stinson, who moved up "through to second vice president and the chairs" this year from second to first vice president, said there was nothing unusual about it: "Nominations are open from the floor and the most popular man gets it. Zunino was the only other candi-winds that sometimes blow hot and sometimes blow cold. Credibility Gap is considered the most dangerous pass in the entire country and no one can stay there very long without suffering from exposure.

Geologists report that in 1963 the gap was no wider than a footpath and anyone could get through it without much difficulty. But through the years the gap seems to have widened because of adverse weather conditions as well as continual bombing. And man-made attempts to close the gap, or at least narrow it, have failed Probably one of the reasons for these failures is that on one can agree on how to close the gap. Authorities will come up with a suggestion one day which sounds very credible on paper, but the next day someone will come up with an entirely different solution which cancels out the first one.

SOME EXPERTS feel the best way to close the gap is to build a bridge across it. But the military is opposed to building any bridges and feels gap safe is to knock out climb. everything in the area.

Other experts insist that the Nellies, and the less said about there.

have to widen. One of the problems of the Credibility Gap is that nobody knows to whom it belongs. The government officials feel the gap belongs to them and they should have complete control over it and decide what should go through it and what shouldn't.

THE PRESS, on the other hand, feels the gap belongs to the people and it should not be SUBJECT TO FIERCE used as an escape route for government explorers.

There are even those high in government circles who deny there is a Credibility Gap and say it is a figment of the imagination of the fourth estate.

But thousands of newspapermen have not only seen the Credibility Gap and gone through it, but have come out of it badly battered, suffering from frostbite and shock

ALTHOUGH IT is one of nature's wonders, the Credibility Gap has now become a political issue. And there are those who predict that if it isn't closed soon, there will be a series of avalanches in 1968.

COUNTY COMMENT

Marvelous Marin Worked Hard. Cheaply To Promote The County

This is a discussion and evaluation of the "Department of Economic Development," Mr. John M. Douglas, director. First for the information of those who have moved to the county during the last decade or so, these are my qualifications in the field of community promotion. For something over seven years I served as secre-

Broadcasters Blamed For Fans' Uprising At 49er-Colt Battle

CHAUVANISM—The six officials were blamed by many for the crowd's ugly mood at the 49er-Baltimore game at Kezar Stadium Dec. 18.

Some folks said the striped-shirted whistle tooters called too many fouls, particularly against the home team. As a result, hundreds of fans swarmed onto the field before the final gun and a couple of sweet guys smashed one of the refs over the head with empty booze bottles.

But, according to Jack L. Blaine, a San Rafael attorney, the real instigators of the mess were seated in the broadcasting booth atop the press box.

BEFORE I continue, let me explain that Blaine show form: served for many years as an official National Football League "Official Observer," reporting to the commissioner on officials' efficiency for the purpose champs carved the biggest basof improving the caliber of officiating and avoiding ketball stunner of the practice led the second half surge, with Bulldog this season by netting unnecessary delays in game time.

That this contributed to, if not caused, the mass hysteria, which resulted in injury to one of the officials, can- ern Methodist - two teams with Georgia, on the other hand, not be refuted."

BLAINE QUICKLY defended the six officials of the 49er-Colt game. "From my vantage point on the field," he said, "the game's infractions were all too and speed, have big play men in apparent not to be called. Each official has a zone to Jerry Levias and Kent Law- vorite before the sell-out crowd cover, or a particular phase of the game to oversee and his attention is therefore focused on that phase. To insinuate that their calls are partial is ridiculaus, nor can it be reasonably assumed that the announcers are in a position to see all the infractions on the field."

BLAINE HAS written his thoughts to 49er General Manager Lou Spadia suggesting a meeting of club officers, local officials, former officials and for- in six of Southern Methodist's mer players to hash over the problem and perhaps eight victories this season as the take steps to prevent further incidents such as the Mustangs won their first Southone that marred the 49er-Colt fracas.

HOW TO PLAY WINNING BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

How A Web-Footed Friend Booted This Bridge Hand

Continuing our celebration of Bonehead Bridge Week, we introduce an animal that inhabits the bridge menagerie - the Pointless Duck

Our web-footed friend made its appearance last November during the Team Selection Tournament in Pittsburgh

No. 3125 ...... Dec. 30, 1966

East dealer

FIRST TRICK

South won the first trick with the ace of diamonds and innocently played the 10 of clubs from his hand.

West's decision to play low was the Pointless Duck.

South surely had a strong sixcard club suit for his bid, which meant that East could have no trumps at all.

By ducking the first club, West allowed South to get out of trouble for a mere 100 points (South's honors were not counted in tournament bridge).

INELEGANT

The rest of the defense was equally inelegant. South led a heart, and East took both top hearts and led another heart for West to ruff.

West cashed his high diamond and led another high diamond to make South ruff.

CAREFUL PLAY South now carefully led his spade to dummy's ace before tackling trumps. He took the ace of clubs and led the queen to West's king. West had to return a diamond, and South ruffed and drew the last trump. Now he could take his good heart to wind up with eight tricks.

West should take the second trick with the king of clubs and lead diamonds. South ruffs the third diamond and leads a heart to the king.

LOW SPADE

East leads a low spade to dummy's ace, wins the heart continuation and leads the queen of spades through South.

West must get two more trump tricks, and South is down two instead of one. Dropping a defensive trick isn't the end of the world, but a player who makes a habit of throwing away 200 points must be either very rich or very friendly.

The dollar-making process begins with the delivery of sheets of special paper made of cotton and linen and marked with the distinctive red and blue fibers that are the bane of counterfeiters. The paper is printed first on one side, then the other, trimmed, cut into individual bills, wrapped, bundled, and delivered to Federal Reserve Banks across the nation.

MANY THANKS

Miss your paper? Please phone before 6:30 p.m.

Harry had a little too much holiday spirits. Harry is in trouble. If he can't pass this sobriety test, he's in more trouble.

Harry thought he could mix alcohol and gasoline. Now he's being given the state Roadside Sobriety Examination. If, with eyes closed, he can't touch his nose with his index fingers, he'll have more than a wrecked car on his hands.

This holiday season, don't take "one for the road." That could be the one for a crash . . . for personal tragedies which may happen in a split second. You owe it to yourself and others to keep a sober hand on the wheel. That way, you won't need to take a test!

This holiday season, if you drive, don't drink; if you drink, don't drive!

YOUR LICENSE IS FOR DRIVING, NOT DRINKING

Under the new state law anyone lawfully arrested for drunken driving must consent to one of 3 chemical tests. Refusal means forfeiting your driver's license for 6 months. Hardly worth it, is it?
